To any potential home or property buyer in Colorado:

Finding and buying the right home is never easy. Finding an exceptional realtor to guide you through the process may be even more difficult! We were extremely fortunate to find Tom Morse of Prudential Triple S Realty in Durango, Colorado!

Tom is simply the best I've ever experienced! He makes a genuine effort to get to know you and what you want. He knows his market and doesn't "steer" you but goes out of his way to ensure that you see a diverse offering of homes and geographies so that you can make an informed decision. And when you make an offer there is no confusion about whom Tom represents in the process. He looks out for you! And it doesn't stop at the sale; Tom's follow-up and attention to detail - particularly for an out-of-town buyer - is invaluable.

What makes Tom Morse so good at what he does can be summarized by three important characteristics: trust, integrity and professionalism.

We don't intend to move anymore in large part because Tom helped us find the right home. But if we did, there is no one else that we would ever consider using.
